PURPOSE AND OBJECTIVES

PURPOSE: The conference will provide practitioners with the most recent information that will enhance knowledge, skills, and performance in the assessment and treatment of mental health disorders. It will also review and update the following clinical issues: diagnosing depression, psychopharmacology, anxiety disorders, dementia and ADHD in children and adults.

OBJECTIVES: At the end of this program, the participants should be able to:

- Review diagnostic criteria, symptomatology and other information useful in recognizing and diagnosing mood disorders
- Examine unique perspectives of primary care and psychiatry practitioners in diagnosing depression
- Discuss the wide range of psychopharmacological treatment of anxiety disorders
- Describe the most common causes of psychopharmacological treatment failure and review new treatment strategies
- List major types of anxiety disorders
- Explore the causes, symptoms, treatment and prevention of diverse anxiety disorders
- Describe symptoms caused by changes in brain function that are suggestive of dementia
- Recognize and manage neuropsychiatric complications of dementia
- Discuss the symptomatology and possible etiology of ADHD and highlight the comorbid conditions associated with it
- Explore new avenues of research to further enhance diagnosis and treatment of ADHD
