Visiting Scholars/Observerships

Aim of Observership

The aim of this program is to provide a basic overview and relevant clinical experience in Neurology.

In some cases it involves training in specific areas of Neurology.

Definition of “Observer”

“Observer” will be the term used for all qualified medical students or physicians trained or working outside of the United States who wish to enhance their knowledge in Neurology.

The Observer must have graduated from a medical school listed in the International Medical Education Directory. The Observer will not participate in the care, decision making or execution of the clinical medical plans. Patient contact is not allowed.

All Observers must be proficient in the English language.
Duration of Observership

The duration of the Observership will be one month or at the discretion of the Chairman of the Department of Neurology.

Education

The Observers are expected to participate in Neurology Rounds and Conferences. They will also have an opportunity to spend time in the Creighton Epilepsy Center, EEG and EMG labs. They will also have an opportunity to observe in the outpatient Neurology clinics.

Cost

The Observer is expected to take care of his/her expenses. No benefits, salary or stipends are provided to the Observer. The Observer is expected to take care of their own room and board. Each candidate is responsible for providing his/her own medical insurance. This is a non-funded program.
