A maximum of four faculty members from each of the health sciences schools will be accepted for participation in SITE. While targeted to new faculty members, faculty with teaching experience who are interested in expanding their teaching skills may also participate.

Applicants should submit:

1. a cover letter expressing your interest in the program. Please address the following questions: Why are you interested in the SITE program? What will you contribute to the experience? How do you envision participation in the program will improve your teaching?;
2. a one-page proposal for a project you will initiate during the week;
3. a copy of your CV;
4. a letter of support from your Department Chair. School of Nursing faculty should submit a letter of support from the Dean.

Participants are expected to advance from SITE to the Teaching Fellows Program. The Teaching Fellows Program spans one academic year and extends the mission of SITE by providing bimonthly professional development activities and mentorship for a scholarly project in education suitable for presentation and publication.
